Family Relationship Centre

We can help in many ways

Our Services

The Family Relationship Centre can assist you no matter what stage your relationship is in.

We can assist you to find relevant services if you are:

- Beginning a new relationship
- Wanting to improve your current relationship
- If your relationship is struggling
- If you need help with parenting
- If you are separating or have separated.

We can help:

- People just starting a relationship
- People with young or old families
- Grandparents and other relatives.

Our Centre

At our Centre you will find:

- A full supply of brochures on community services
- Booklets supplied by government agencies and other services.

Other services

We provide comprehensive individual assessment of your needs.

We can provide you with information on local services that can help you to:

- Begin a new relationship
- Improve your current relationship
- Cope with the process of separation
- Improve your parenting and step parenting skills.

We can also make referrals on your behalf to these services.

We provide Child Focused Information online to help parents understand how children experience separation.

We also provide Family Dispute Resolution to help parents reach an agreement about their children and property.

Early intervention services

Our early intervention services include:

- Relationship counselling
- Relationship education
- Assisting men and women to build healthy relationships.
